Beirut – Saba:

The spokesperson for the Islamic Jihad Movement in Palestine, Mohammed Al-Haj Moussa, said on Friday that the movement is in continuous contact with mediators to inform them of the Israeli enemy's violations and non-compliance with the terms of the ceasefire agreement in the Gaza Strip.

Al-Haj Moussa clarified in statements to Al Jazeera Mubasher that the resistance is responsive to all mediators' demands, calling on them to exert real pressure on the American administration to compel the enemy to comply with what was agreed upon.

He added that the resistance possesses leverage capable of pressuring the enemy, but it prefers to move forward with implementing the second phase of the ceasefire agreement instead of returning to escalation.

The Islamic Jihad spokesperson accused the Israeli side of not wanting to withdraw from the Gaza Strip, pointing out that it deliberately suspended the work of dozens of humanitarian institutions inside the Strip, which exacerbated the humanitarian situation.

He held the American administration responsible for the continuation of the enemy's violations, saying it fully aligns with its schemes, demanding it to respect its role as a guarantor for implementing the agreement.

Al-Haj Moussa affirmed the movement's rejection of any external guardianship over Gaza and its insistence on forming a Palestinian administration to manage the affairs of the Strip in the next phase.
